

MY READAXATION RECORD

First name or just initials:

Age:

Nicola Morgan, author of The Teenage Guide to Stress and other books, is testing whether reading an enjoyable book is a useful way to be less stressed. She calls it READAXATION. Would you like to take part? You just need to record some feelings for seven days.

First, read these statements and score 0-4 depending on how much you agree. So, if you don't agree at all, circle 0; if you strongly agree, circle 4. Think carefully about your answers.

1. "It is usually easy for me to find a book I'll enjoy." 0 1 2 3 4
2. "Ideally, I would like to read for pleasure every day if possible." 0 1 2 3 4
3. "It is easy for me to make time for reading." 0 1 2 3 4
4. "Often when I read, I get carried away and involved in the story." 0 1 2 3 4

Now, each day for 7 days, follow these steps:

- Find a time when you won't be disturbed for about half an hour and a book you want to read. Find a comfortable place to read.
- On the chart below, record your stress levels before you start reading, on a scale of 0-4. Think about symptoms such as racing heart, shallow breathing, tight muscles, feeling anxious, not the actual things you might be worried about.
- Then read for about half an hour, letting yourself be carried away into the book.
- Note your stress levels after you finish reading.

0 = (no stress at all)

1 = (slightly stressed)

2 = (medium stressed)

3 = (pretty stressed)

4 = (extremely stressed)

If you didn't read one day, DON'T record that day. Stop when you have 7 days of records.
